

Business people sometimes make poor career decisions—don't be one of them. Managing the FUZ is a story about people in provocative, funny, and sad workplace situations. What happens at The FUZ can happen to anybody, and at any company. It's late and Myra Gates, a young, talented, and fast-tracking executive, has been drinking. When she agrees to go with her new boss to his hotel room she learns a valuable lesson about trust...Cagey business manager Ed Cooper is tested by an embarrassing demotion, the layoff of colleagues, and a new boss who happens to be his hated rival...The pressure is on Lucas Moore and he's nervous about an important presentation. It's an opportunity to be a star, but if he fails the fate of his career is at risk...Peter Dingman and Trig Davis are hired to lead The FUZ in a new direction, but their decisions have dire consequences and push the company to the verge of collapse. Managing the FUZ isn't a guidebook full of advice, but it is an entertaining account of how regular people learn to navigate the turbulent waters of the business world. The book is written by an experienced executive and manager, Boone Mortensen, who hasn't seen it all, but has seen enough.
